

We apply a magnetic field B . The two magnetic parts are magnetized in the axial direction, and the attraction force between the two magnets is generated. The attraction force will help to safely store the encapsulated drug inside the capsule during the diagnosis and locomotion process.